

0.0.1 Divine messenger (excerpt)

1. Once in the past, O bhikkhus, this [thought] occurred to King Yama: “Indeed Sir, those who do evil kamma in the world are made to [undergo] such manifold forms of bodily punishment! O, that I may gain the human state. O that a Tathagata may arise in the world, the Arahant, the rightly self-awakened one, and that I may attend on the Auspicious One, and that the Auspicious One may teach me the Dhamma, and that I may understand the Auspicious One’s Dhamma.” But I, O bhikkhus, say this not having heard it of another samana or brahmana. Rather, I only say just what I have understood by myself, seen by myself, known by myself, I say.

[Although] warned by
the divine messengers,
those younger people
who are negligent;
they grieve for a long
time,
when they go from the human state to an inferior body.

But those warned by the
divine messengers,
who are not negligent;
at any time in the noble
Dhamma,
they are the true men
here.

Having seen fear in appropriations,
the origin of birth and
death;
are liberated without
appropriations,
the obliteration of birth and death.

 attained security,
 perfectly cool in this life;
 They have overcome all
 enmity and fear,
 surmounted all suffering.
