1. Then, the brahmin Janussoni visited with the Auspicious One. Upon arrival, he exchanged friendly greetings with the Auspicious One. Having exchanged friendly greetings and cordial talk, he sat down to one side. Having sat down to one side, the brahmin Janussoni said this to the Auspicious One:

atha kho jāṇussonī

of the undergoing of death. However, O brahmin, there are those who, not fearing being liable to death, are not afraid of the undergoing of death.

4. And who, O brahmin, fearing being liable to death, is afraid of the undergoing of death?

5. Here, O brahmin, a certain one is not rid of lust, not rid of desire, not rid of affection, not rid of thirst, not rid of fever, not rid of greed in sensual pleasures. A severe disease or sickness is contacted by that certain one. It occurs to that certain one contacted by the severe disease or sickness thus: “Alas, the sensual pleasures that are dear will abandon me, or I will abandon the sensual pleasures that are dear!” He grieves, becomes distressed,

6. Furthermore, O brahmin, here a certain one is not rid of lust, not rid of desire, not rid of affection, not rid of thirst, not rid of fever, not rid of greed for the body. A severe disease or sickness is contacted by that certain one. It occurs to that certain one contacted by the severe disease or sickness thus: “Alas, the body that is dear will abandon me, or I will abandon the body that is dear!” He grieves, becomes distressed, laments, wails beating his breast, falls into confusion. been closed, or show a path to one who is lost, or bear an oil lamp in the darkness so that those with good eyesight can see forms, just so has the Dhamma been explained by the venerable Gotama in countless ways. I go, to the Auspicious Gotama, as refuge, and to the Dhamma, and to the Sangha of bhikkhus. May Master Gotama bear it in mind, that I am a lay disciple who has gone for refuge from today for as long as life lasts.
