0.0.1 Strong City Gate Post

Indeed, O bhikkhus, those samanas or brahmanas who do not wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is suffering;" who do not wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the origin of suffering;" who do not wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the cessation of suffering;" who do not wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the way leading to the cessation of suffering;" they look at the face of another samana or brahmana [thinking]: "Surely, this venerable one, knowing, he knows; seeing, he sees." Just as, O bhikkhus, a light cotton wadding or cotton-wool, grasped by the wind, settles down on an even part of the ground. An easterly wind would carry it westwards, a westerly wind would carry it eastwards, a northerly wind would carry it southwards, a southerly wind would carry it northwards. What is the reason for that? O bhikkhus, [It is because of] the lightness of the cotton. It is just so, O bhikkhus, those samanas or brahmanas who do not wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is suffering;" who do not wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the origin of suffering;" who do not wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the cessation of suffering;" who do not wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the way leading to the cessation of suffering;" they look at the face of another samana or brahmana [thinking]: "Surely, this venerable one, knowing, he knows; seeing, he sees." What is the reason for that? O bhikkhus, [it is because of their blindness to the four noble truths.

0.0.1 indakhīlasuttam

- ye hi keci bhikkhave, samanā vā brāhmanā vā "idam dukkha"nti yathābhūtam nappajānanti "ayam dukkhasamudayo"ti yathabhūtam nappajananti "ayam dukkhanirodho"ti yathābhūtam nappajānanti "ayam dukkhanirodhagāminī patipadā"ti yathābhūtam nappajānanti. te aññassa samanassa vā brāhmanassa vā mukham olokenti¹ "ayam nuna bhavam jānam jānāti passam passatī"ti. sevvathāpi bhikkhave, tūlapicu vā kappāsapicu vā lahuko vātupādāno same bhumibhāge nikkhitto, tamenam puratthimo vato pacchimena samhareyya, pacchimo vāto puratthimena samhareyva, uttaro vāto dakkhiņena samhareyya, dakkhiņo vāto uttarena samhareyya. tam kissa hetu: lahukattā bhikkhave, kappāsapicuno. evameva kho bhikkhave, ye keci² samanā vā brāhmanā vā "idam dukkha"nti yathābhūtam nappajānanti "ayam dukkhasamudayo"ti yathābhūtam nappajānanti "ayam dukkhanirodho"ti yathābhutam nappajānanti "ayam dukkhanirodhagāminī patipadā"ti yathābhūtam nappajānanti. te aññassa samanassa vā brāhmanassa vā mukham olokenti "ayam nūna bhavam jānam jānāti passam passatī"ti, tam kissa hetu? aditthattā bhikkhave, catunnam ariyasaccānam.
- 2. ye ca kho keci bhikkhave, samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā "idaṃ dukkha"nti yathābhūtaṃ pajānanti "ayaṃ duk-

¹ullokenti-machasaṃ, sī 1, 2.

²ye hi keci-syā. pts page 444

O bhikkhus, those samanas or brahmanas who wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is suffering;" who wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the origin of suffering;" who wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the cessation of suffering;" who wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the way leading to the cessation of suffering;" they do not look at the face of another samana or brahmana [thinking]: "Surely, this venerable one, knowing, he knows; seeing, he sees." Just as, O bhikkhus, an iron post or a strong post, deeply planted, well dug in before a city gate is immovable, unshakable. Even if heavy wind with rain might come from the eastern direction, that would simply not shake, would not tremble, would not sway. Even if heavy wind with rain might come from the western direction, that would simply not shake, would not tremble, would not sway. Even if heavy wind with rain might come from the northern direction, that would simply not shake, would not tremble, would not sway. Even if heavy wind with rain might come from the southern direction, that would simply not shake, would not tremble, would not sway. What is the reason for that? O bhikkhus, [it is because] of the depth of its base, the firm foundation of the strong city gate post. It is just so, O bhikkhus, those samanas or brahmanas who wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is suffering;" who wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the origin of suffering;" who wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the cessation of suffering;" who wisely understand as it has come to be: "This is the way leading to the cessation khasamudayoti" yathābhūtam pajānanti "ayam dukkhanirodhoti" yathābhūtam pajānanti "ayam dukkhanirodhagāminī patipadā"ti yathābhūtam pajānanti, te nāññassa samanassa vā brāhmanassa vā mukham olokenti "ayam nūnam bhavam jānam jānāti passam passatī"ti. sevvathāpi bhikkhave, avokhīlo vā indakhīlo vā gambhīranemo sunikhāto acalo asampakampī. puratthimāva cepi disāva āgacchevva bhusā vātavutthi, neva nam sankampeyya na sampakampeyya na sampacāleyya. pacchimāya cepi disāya āgaccheyya bhusā vātavutthi, neva nam sankampeyya na sampakampeyya na sampacāleyya. uttarāya cepi disāya āgaccheyya bhusā vātavutthi, neva nam sankampeyya na sampakampeyya na sampacāleyya. dakkhināya cepi disāva āgacchevya bhusā vātavutthi, neva nam sankampeyya na sampakampeyya na sampacāleyya. tam kissa hetu? gambhīrattā bhikkhave, nemassa, sunikhātattā indakhīlassa. evameva kho bhikkhave, ye hi keci samanā vā brāhmanā vā "idam dukkha"nti yathābhūtam pajānanti "ayam dukkhasamudayoti" yathābhūtam pajānanti "ayam dukkhanirodhoti" yathābhūtam pajānanti "ayam dukkhanirodhagāminī patipadā"ti yathābhūtam pajānanti, te nāññassa samanassa vā brāhmanassa vā mukham olokenti "ayam nūna bhavam jānam jānāti passam passatī"ti tam kissa hetu? suditthattā bhikkhave, catunnam ariyasaccānam. katamesam catunnam: dukkhassa arivasaccassa dukkhasamudavassa ariyasaccassa dukkhanirodhassa ariyasaccassa dukkhanirodhagāminiyā patipadāya ariyasaccassa.

of suffering;" they do not look at the face of another samana or brahmana [thinking]: "Surely, this venerable one, knowing, he knows; seeing, he sees." What is the reason for that? O bhikkhus, [it is because of] the well-seeing-ness of the four noble truths. Which four? The noble truth of suffering, the noble truth of the origin of suffering, the noble truth of the cessation of suffering, the noble truth of the way leading to the cessation of suffering.

3. Therefore, O bhikkhus, an endeavour should be made [to realize]: "This is suffering;" An endeavour should be made [to realize]: "This is the origin of suffering;" An endeavour should be made [to realize]: "This is the cessation of suffering;" An endeavour should be made [to realize]: "This is the way leading to the cessation of suffering;"

3. tasmātiha bhikkhave, "idam dukkha"nti yogo karanīyo "ayam dukkhasamudayoti" yogo karanīyo "ayam dukkhanirodhoti" yogo karanīyo "ayam dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā"ti yogo karanīyoti.

pts page 445