

0.0.1 Intention (3)

0. At Savatthi.

1. “That which, O bhikkhus, one intends, and that which one thinks over, and that which one has a tendency towards, that is the foothold for the persistence of consciousness. There being a foothold, there is the establishment of consciousness. In one whose consciousness is established and has come to growth, there is inclination. There being an inclination, there is a coming and a going. There being a coming and a going, there is a passing away and an arising. There being a passing away and an arising, there is future birth, old age and death, sorrow, lamentation, physical suffering, mental suffering and despair. Thus arises this entire amassment of suffering.

tatīyacetanāsuttaṃ

sāvattthiyaṃ

yañca bhikkhave, ceteti, yañca pakappeti, yañca anuseti, ārammaṇametam hoti viññāṇassa tītiyā. ārammaṇe sati patitṭhā viññāṇassa hoti. tasmim patitṭhite viññāṇe virūḷhe nati hoti. natiyā sati āgatigati hoti. āgatigatiyā sati cutūpapāto hoti. cutūpapāte sati āyatim jātijarāmarāṇaṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā sambhavanti. evametassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa samudayo hoti.

2. If, O bhikkhus, one does not intend, if one does not think over, yet one has a tendency towards [something], that is the foothold for the persistence of consciousness. There being a foothold, there is the establishment of consciousness. In one whose consciousness is established and has come to growth, there is inclination. There being an inclination, there is a coming and a going. There being a coming and a going, there is a passing away and an arising. There being a passing away and an arising, there is future birth, old age and death, sorrow, lamentation, physical suffering, mental suffering and despair. Thus arises this entire amassment of suffering.

3. But from the time, O bhikkhus, that one does not intend, and one does not think over, and one has no no ce bhikkhave, ceteti, no ce pakappeti, atha ce anuseti ārammaṇametam hoti viññāṇassa ṭhi-tiyā. ārammaṇe sati patitṭhā viññāṇassa hoti. tasmim patitṭhite viññāṇe virūḷhe nati hoti. natiyā sati āgatigati hoti. āgatigatiyā sati cutūpapāto hoti. cutūpapāte sati āyatim jātijarāmarāṇaṃ sokaparidevadukkha-domanassupāyāsā sambhavanti. evametassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa samudayo hoti.

yato ca kho bhikkhave, no ceva ceteti, no ca pakappeti, no ca anuseti, ārammaṇametam na hoti tendency towards [anything], there is not the foothold for the persistence of consciousness. There being no foothold, there is no establishment of consciousness. With consciousness unestablished and not having come to growth, there is no inclination. Inclination not being, there is not a coming and a going. A coming and a going not being, there is not a passing away and an arising. A passing away and an arising not being, there is not future birth, old age and death, sorrow, lamentation, physical suffering, mental suffering and despair. Thus ceases this entire stock of suffering.”

viññāṇassa t̥hitiyā.
 ārammaṇe asati pa-
 tiṭṭhā viññāṇassa na
 hoti. tadappatiṭṭhite
 viññāṇe virūl̥he nati
 na hoti. natiyā asati
 āgatigati na hoti.
 āgatigatiyā asati cu-
 tūpapāto na hoti. cu-
 tūpapāte asati āya-
 tiṃ jātijarāmaṇaṃ
 sokaparidevadukkha-
 domanassupāyāsā
 nirujjhanti. evame-
 tassa kevalassa duk-
 khakkhandhassa ni-
 rodho hotī'ti.

