aṅgulimāla suttaṃ

1. Thus was heard by me. At one time the Auspicious One was dwelling at Savatthi in Jeta's Grove, Anathapindika's Park. At that time in king Pasenadi of Kosala's kingdom, there was a bandit named Angulimala, who was cruel, bloody-handed, violent, merciless towards living beings. Villages were made decimated villages, towns were made decimated towns, districts were made decimated districts. He, having slayed human beings, having cut off their fingers, wore them as garland. Then in the morning time, the Auspicious One, having dressed, having taken bowl and outer robe, entered Savatthi for alms food. Having wandered in Savatthi for alms food, after his meal, having gone back after alms gathering, he set his dwelling place in order. Having taken bowl and robes, he entered the main road towards the bandit Angulimala.

2. The cowherds, shepherds, farmers, and passersby, saw the Auspicious One entered the main road towards the bandit Angulimala. Having seen, said this to the Auspicious One: “Do not, O samana, enter this path. On this path, O samana, is there is a bandit named Angulimala who is cruel, bloody-handed, violent, merciless towards living beings. Villages have been made decimated villages, towns have been made decimated towns, districts have been made decimated districts. He, having slayed human beings, having cut off their fingers, wear them as garland. Indeed on this path, O samana, even ten men, even twenty men, even thirty men, even forty men, even fifty men, having entered together on this path, have met their death at the hands of the bandit, Angulimala.” When thus was said, the Auspicious One went on in silence.

Indeed on this path, even ten men, even twenty men, even thirty men, even forty men, even fifty men, having entered this path together, have met their death at my hands. 5. So then, the bandit Angulimala, having grabbed his sword and shield, having fastened on his bow and quiver, pursued behind, following the Auspicious One. Then the Auspicious One fashioned such a feat of psychic power that the bandit Angulimala going with all his strength was not capable of catching up with the Auspicious One going at his normal pace. Then this occurred to the bandit Angulimala “It is marvellous indeed, Sir. It is unprecedented indeed, Sir. Formerly I could indeed even run up to an elephant and having attacked it, seize it. I could even run up to a horse and having attacked it, seize it. I could even run up to a beast and having attacked it, seize it. But now, even though I am going with all my strength, I am not able to catch up with this samana.” He said this to the Auspicious One: “Stop, O samana! Stop, O samana!” “I, O Angulimala, have stopped. You stop.”

7. So then, the Auspicious One set out to Savatthi with the venerable Angulimala as his attendant. Walking stage by stage, they arrived at Savatthi. There, the Auspicious One dwelled at Savatthi in Jeta's Grove, Anathapindika's Park. At that time, at king Pasenadi of Kosala's door of the inner palace, a great multitude of people, having gathered together, were making a great noise, a loud noise: "O Your Majesty, the bandit named Angulimala is in your kingdom. He is cruel, bloody-handed, violent, merciless towards living beings. Villages have been made decimated villages, towns have been made decimated towns, districts have been made decimated districts. Having descended from his vehicle, proceeded on foot to visit with the Auspicious One. Upon arrival, having bowed down to the Auspicious One, he sat down to one side. Having sat down to one side, the Auspicious One said this to king Pasenadi of Kosala: “O Great King, has the king of Magadha, Seniya Bimbisara provoked you, or the Licchavis of Vesali, or other opposing kings?” “No, O Bhante, the king of Magadha, Seniya Bimbisara, has not provoked me, also not the Licchavis of Vesali, also not any other opposing kings. yasmā aṅgulimālo arahataṃ ahoṣi.

16. Then in the morning, the venerable Angulimala, having dressed, having taken bowl and outer robe, entered Savatthi for alms food. At that time, some threw stones that landed on the venerable Angulimala’s body, others threw sticks that landed on the venerable Angulimala’s body, others also threw potsherd that landed on the venerable Angulimala’s body. So then the venerable Angulimala, with a broken bowl, with his head cut with blood dripping, with his outer robe torn apart, visited with the Auspicious One. The Auspicious One saw the venerable Angulimala approaching from afar. Having seen, he said this to the venerable Angulimala “You bear it, O Brahmin. You bear it, O Brahmin. You, O Brahmin, are experiencing the results of kamma in this very life, which were it to ripen in hell, you would have roasted for many years, for many hundreds of years, for many thousands of years, for many hundreds of thousands of years.” So then the venerable Angulimāla, while alone in seclusion, experiencing the happiness of liberation, uttered this inspired utterance:

atha kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo pubbanhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaram ādāya sāvattim piṇḍāya pāvisi, tena kho pana samayena aññenapi leḍḍu khitto āyasmato aṅgulimālassa kāye nipatati, aññenapi daṇḍo khitto āyasmato aṅgulimālassa kāye nipatati, aññenapi sakkharā khittā āyasmato aṅgulimālassa kāye nipatati. atha kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo bhinnena sīsena lohiteṇa galanteṇa bhinnena pātṭena vipphālitāya²⁹ saṅghāṭiyā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami. addasā kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ aṅgulimālaṃ dūratova āgacchantam, disvāna āyasmantaṃ aṅgulimālaṃ etadavoca: adhi-vāsehi tvaṃ brāhmaṇa, adhivāsehi tvaṃ brāhmaṇa, yassa kho tvaṃ kammassa vipākena bahūni vassāni bahūni vassasatāni bahūni vassasahassāni niraye pacceyyāsi. tassa tvaṃ brāhmaṇa, kammassa vipākam diṭṭheva dhamme paṭisaṃvedesī’ti. atha kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo rahogato paṭisallīno vimuttisukhapaṭisaṃvedi tāyaṃ velāyaṃ imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

²⁹vipphāritāya - sīmu. ■

He who having been formerly negligent, but afterwards is no longer negligent;
he enlightens this world,
just like the moon freed from the clouds.

yo ca pubbe pamajjitvā,
pacchā so nappamajjati;
so imaṃ lokam pabhāseti,
abbhā muttova candimā.

He whose evil kamma done,
is eclipsed by the wholesome;
he enlightens this world,
just like the moon freed from the clouds.

yassa pāpaṃ kataṃ kammaṃ,
kusalena pithiyati;
so imaṃ lokam pabhāseti,
abbhā muttova candimā.

Indeed that young bhikkhu,
who devotes himself to the Buddha's instructions;
he enlightens this world,
just like the moon freed from the clouds.

yo have daharo bhikkhu,
yuñjati buddhasāsane;
so imaṃ lokam pabhāseti,
abbhā muttova candimā

Indeed let my enemies listen to the Dhamma, indeed let my enemies devote themselves to the Buddha's instructions;
indeed let my enemies wait on the human beings,
the peaceful ones who lead others to accept the Dhamma.

disā hi me dhammakatham suṇantu, disā hi me yuñjantu buddhasāsane;
disā hi me te manuje³⁰ bhajantu, ye dhammamevādapayanti santo.

Indeed let my enemies hear the doctrine of peace,
speaking in praise of harmony;
let them listen to the dhamma at the right time, and act in conformity with that.

disā hi me khantivādānam³¹, avirodhappasaṃsinam³²; suṇantu dhammam kālena,
tañca anuvidhīyantu.

Indeed they will not at all harm me,
or others in any way;

having attained the highest peace,
they would protect both the frail and firm.

na hi jātu so mamaṃ hiṃse, aññaṃ vā pana kañcanaṃ³³;
pappuyya paramaṃ santim,
rakkheyya tasathāvare.

Indeed irrigators guide the water, fletchers straighten the arrow;
carpenters shape the wood,
the wise ones tame themselves.

udakaṃ hi nayanti nettikā, usukārā namayanti tejanaṃ;
dāruṃ namayanti tacchakā, attānaṃ damayanti paṇḍitā.

Some tame by the rod,
by the hook pole and by the whip;
not by the rod, not by the sword,
was I tamed by the such-like one.

daṇḍeneke damayanti,
aṅkusehi kasāhi ca;
adaṇḍena asatthena,
ahaṃ dantomhi tādina.

Non-harm was my name,

³³kiñci naṃ - machasaṃ ■

formally I was harmful;
today, I am truly named,
for I do not harm any one.

ahiṃsakoti me nāmaṃ,
hiṃsakassa pure sato;
ajjāhaṃ saccanāmomhi,
na naṃ hiṃsāmi kañcanaṃ³⁴.

Formally I was a bandit,
the famous Angulimala;
("being swept away by the great flood,
I went to the Buddha as refuge.

coro ahaṃ pure āsiṃ,
aṅgulimālo ti vissuto;
vuyhamāno mahoghena,
buddhaṃ saraṇamāgamaṃ.

Formally I was bloody-handed,
the famous Angulimala;
see my coming to refuge,
the conduit to been is well uprooted.

lohitapāṇi pure āsiṃ,
aṅgulimāloti vissuto;
saraṇāgamaṇaṃ passa,
bhavanetti samūhatā.

³⁴kañci naṃ - simu, pts, syā; kiñci naṃ - machasaṃ

Having done much kamma, of the kind leading to the lower worlds;
the results of kamma has reached me now,
and so I eat my food free from debt.

tādisaṃ kammaṃ katvāna,
bahu³⁵ duggatigāminaṃ;
phuṭṭho kammavipākena,
anaṇo bhuñjāmi bhojanaṃ.

They devote themselves to negligence,
the foolish ignorant population;
but the wise ones protect vigilance,
like their best treasure.

pamādamanuyuñjanti,
bālā dummedhino janā;
appamādañca medhāvī,
dhanam seṭṭhamva rakkhati.

Do not devote yourself to negligence, do not delight in sensual pleasures and intimacy;
indeed the vigilant one [always] meditating,
attains abundant happiness.

mā pamādamanuyuñjetha,
mā kāmaratisanthavaṃ;
appamatto hi jhāyanto,

It was welcome, not unwelcome,
this was not badly advised for me;
among things shared,
I have arrived at the best.

I have attained the triple knowledge,
