

0.0.1 Timely Gifts

1. There are, O bhikkhus, these five timely gifts. Which five?

2. One gives a visitor's gift. One gives a traveller's gift. One gives a patient's gift. One gives a gift during famine. Whatever crops, whatever fruits are newly harvested, one first bestows them upon the virtuous ones. These, O bhikkhus, are the five timely gifts.

19. Timely giving from the wise,
the generous ones free from miserliness;
timely offered among the nobles,
among the upright such-like ones;
with a very clear mind,
that gift is truly vast.

20 Those there who rejoice in it,
or help with the preparations;
for those are not left out of the offering,
they too partake in the merits.

21. Therefore certainly give with a confident mind,
where what is offered is of great fruit;
for one's merits is the support,
for living beings in the other world.

0.0.1 kālādānasuttaṃ

1. pañcimāni bhikkhave kālādānāni. katamāni pañca?
2. āgantukassa dānaṃ deti. gamikassa dānaṃ deti. gilānassa dānaṃ deti. dubbhikkhe dānaṃ deti. yāni navasassāni navaphalāni, tāni paṭhamam sīlavantesu patitṭhāpeti. imāni kho bhikkhave pañca kālādānānīti.

19. kāle dadanti sappaññā,
vadaññū vītamaccharā;
kālena dinnaṃ ariyesu,
ujubhutesu tādisu;
vipprasanna manā tassa,
vipulā hoti dakkhiṇā.

20 ye tattha anumodanti,
veyyāvaccaṃ karonni vā;
na tesam¹ dakkhiṇā ūnā,
tepi puññassa bhāgino.

21. tasmā dade va² appaṭivānacitto,
yattha dinnaṃ mahapphalaṃ;
puññāni paralokasmiṃ,
patitṭhā honti pāṇinanti.

¹tesamdakkhiṇāūnā - machasaṃ, pts

²dade - syā, machasaṃ