1. Thus was heard by me. At one time the Auspicious One was dwelling in Natika at the Brick Hall. At that time, at each and every place within the country, the Auspicious One declared the birth of disciples who had died and passed away. Among the Kasis and the Kosalans, the Vajjis and the Mallas, the Cetas and the Vamsas, the Kurus and the Pancalas, the Macchas and the Surasenas: “That one arose there, that one arose there.” “More than fifty disciples from Natika who had died and passed away, from the complete extinction of the five fetters that binds one to the near shore, come to be born spontaneously, bound to attained final nibbana in that place, not subject to return from that world. More than ninety disciples from Natika who had died and passed away,

19. Formerly, O Bhante, in earlier days, during the Up-satha day, the night of the fifteenth full moon day, at the beginning of the rains retreat, the entire devas of the Tavatimsa, having assembled at the Sudhamma hall, the great assembly of devas was seated all around. All of them having assembled, were seated together. The four great kings, sat in the four directions; with the great king Dhatarattha seated in the eastern direction facing west, with the devas in front; the great king Virulha seated in the southern direction facing north, with the devas in front; the great king Virupakkha seated in the western direction facing east, with the devas in front; the great king Vessavana seated in the northern

The four great kings having been informed of the meaning of what was said, each stood by his own seat, not having departed.

“Those kings being informed of what was said,

24. When, O Bhante, Brahma Sanankumara appears to the Tavatimsa devas, he appears having created a gross self-begetting, since, O Bhante, Brahma’s natural appearance is imperceivable to the Tavatimsa devas range of vision. They all simply sit down quietly in cross-legged position with hands in anjali [thinking]: “Now of whichever deva Brahma Sanankumara will wish, he will sit on that deva’s seat.” And of the deva, O Bhante, whose seat Brahma Sanankumara sits down, that deva gains the attainment of a great feeling, that deva gains the attainment of great joy. 50. Indeed, Sirs, that which one rightly saying would say: “The Dhamma is well-proclaimed by the Auspicious One, visible in this life, not involving time, inviting eye witness, leading onwards, to be comprehended by the wise, each one for one’s self, open is the door to the deathless,” it will be this here that one rightly saying, would say. For indeed “The Dhamma is well-proclaimed by the Auspicious One, visible in this life, not involving time, inviting eye witness, leading onwards, to be comprehended by the wise, each one for one’s self, open is the door to the deathless.”

51. Indeed whoever, Sirs, is endowed with confirmed confidence in the Buddha, endowed with confirmed confidence in the dhamma, endowed with confirmed confidence in the Sangha, endowed with the virtues dear to the noble ones. Those among these Magadhan disciples who had died and passed away, who have been born spontaneously on account of their Dhamma training, who, from the complete extinction of the three fetters, are stream-enterers, not subject to the woeful plane, on a fixed course, destined for supreme awakening, amount to more than two million, four hundred thousand. There are also once returners among them.
