

0.0.1 Seeing in Accordance with a Duality

1. Thus was heard by me. At one time the Auspicious One was dwelling in Savatthi at the Eastern Monastery, the mansion of Migara's Mother. At that time the Auspicious One was seated in the open air surrounded by the bhikkhu Sangha during the Uposatha day, the night of the fifteenth day full moon. Then the Auspicious One, having surveyed the silent bhikkhu Sangha, addressed the bhikkhus.

2. Those wholesome dhammas, O bhikkhus, which are noble and emancipating, leading to self-awakening, O bhikkhus, what is the reason for you samanās undertaking those wholesome dhammas which are noble and emancipating, leading to self-awakening? If you were to be questioned thus, O bhikkhus, thus should be said: “It is only for the knowledge of those dhammas that are dualities, as they have come to be.” And what are the dualities that you must speak of:

3. “This is suffering. This is the origination of suffering.” This is one mode of seeing. “This is the cessation of suffering. This is the path leading to the cessation of suffering.” This is the second mode of seeing. Rightly seeing in accordance with such and such duality, O bhikkhus, for a bhikkhu who dwells ever vigilant, ardent and resolute, of two fruits a certain fruit is to be expected: “in just this very life final knowledge, or non-returning [if] there is residue remaining.” This is what the Auspicious

And how might there be?
