

0.0.1 Attachment to Enculturation

0. Source: Savatthi

1. O bhikkhus, for a bhikkhu who dwells unattached to enculturation, however much such a wish would arise: “O that my mind would be really liberated from the asavas by non-undertakings.” Yet certainly his mind would not be really liberated from the asavas by non-undertakings. What is the reason for that? “Non-enculturation” should be said. Non-enculturation of what? The four establishments of mindfulness, the four right strivings, the four bases for supernormal powers, the five faculties, the five powers, the seven awakening factors, the noble eight-fold path.

2. Suppose, O bhikkhus, that a hen has eight or ten or twelve eggs. They would not be properly sat on, properly warmed, properly incubated by that hen. However much the hen would give rise to such a wish: “O that having cracked open the eggshells by the points of their claws or the points of their beaks, my chicks would completely hatch safely.” Yet those chicks are just incapable of completely hatching safely having cracked open the eggshells by the points of their claws or the points of their beaks. What is the reason for that? Because it is so, O bhikkhus, when the eggs are not properly sat on, properly warmed, properly incubated by that hen. So too, O bhikkhus, for a bhikkhu who dwells unattached to enculturation, however much such a wish would arise: “O that my mind would be really liberated from the asavas
