1. Then a certain bhikkhu visited with the Auspicious One. Upon arrival, having bowed down to the Auspicious One, he sat down to one side. Having sat down to one side, that bhikkhu said this to the Auspicious One:

vādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. ekamantaṃ nisinno
kho so bhikkhu bhagavantam etadavoca:

2. “By what, O Bhante, is the world led? By what is the world dragged about? When what has arisen, does it go under its control?”

kissati, kassa ca uppannassa vasaṃ gacchatīti?

sādhū sādhu bhikkhu, bhaddako kho te bhikkhu ummaggo, bhaddakaṃ paṭibhānaṃ, kalyāṇī paripucchā. evaṃ hi tvaṃ bhikkhu paripucchasi:

4. “By what, O Bhante, is the world led? By what is the world dragged about? When what has arisen, does it go under its control?”

12. ““Many teachings, O bhikkhu, have been taught by me: the discourses, mixed prose and verse, expositions, verses, inspired utterances, quotations, birth stories, amazing accounts, and questions-and-answers. Even if a bhikkhu, having understood the meaning, having understood the Dhamma of a four-line verse, is treading the path of dhamma that accords with the Dhamma, it is enough for one to be called, well-learned, a bearer of the Dhamma.””

He has heard: “This is the origination of suffering,” and he sees the meaning having penetrated it with his wisdom. He has heard: “This is the cessation of suffering,” and he sees the meaning having penetrated it with his wisdom. He has heard: “This is the path leading to the cessation of suffering,” and he sees the meaning having penetrated it with his wisdom. Thus, O bhikkhu, is one a Dhamma-hearer, one of penetrative wisdom.”
