jāṇussonī suttaṃ

1. Then, the brahmin Janussoni visited with the Auspicious One. Upon arrival, he exchanged friendly greetings with the Auspicious One. Having exchanged friendly greetings and cordial talk, he sat down to one side. Having sat down to one side, the brahmin Janussoni said this to the Auspicious One:

atha kho jāṇussonī brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenu-pasaṅkami. upasaṅkamitvā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi. sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sārāṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi, ekamantaṃ nisinno kho jāṇussonī brāhmaṇo bhagavantam etadavoca:

2. Indeed we brahmins, O Master Gotama, usually make food offerings when performing memorial rites [believing] “May this food offering be of benefit to our departed relatives and blood relations. May our departed relatives and blood relations enjoy this food offering.” “Do our departed relatives and blood relations, O Master Gotama, truly benefit from this food offering? Do our departed relatives and blood relations truly enjoy this food offering?”

mayamassu bho gotama brāhmaṇā nāma dānāni dema saddhāni karoma: "idaṃ dānaṃ petānaṃ ñātisālohitānaṃ upakappatu, idaṃ dānaṃ petā

3. In a suitable place, O Brahmin, they benefit, not in an unsuitable place.

ṭhāne kho brāhmaṇa upakappati, no aṭṭhāneti.

4. But what, O Master Gotama, is a suitable place? What is an unsuitable place?

katamañca¹ bho gotama ṭhānaṃ? katamaṃ aṭṭhānanti?

5. Here, O Brahmin, a certain individual is a killer of living beings, a taker of what is not given, an engager in misconduct in sensual pleasures, a speaker of falsehood, a speaker of divisive speech, a speaker of harsh speech, a covetous one, one with a mind of ill-will, a holder of wrong view. With the body's breakup after death, he arises in a lower world, unhappy destination, the woeful plane, in hell. Whichever is the nutriment of the hell beings, it is just that which he lives on, it is just that which he sustains himself with. This, O brahmin, is an unsuitable place where staying, he cannot benefit from
