

0.0.1 The Major Exposition on Dhamma Undertakings

mahādharmasamādānasuttaṃ

1. Thus was heard by me. At one time the Auspicious One was dwelling at Savatthi in Jeta's Grove, Anathapindika's Park. At that place the Auspicious One addressed the bhikkhus: "Bhikkhus." "Bhante," those bhikkhus replied to the Auspicious One. The Auspicious One said this:

evaṃ me sutam: ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme. tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi: bhikkhavo'ti. bhadante'ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum. bhagavā etadavoca:

2. "The majority of beings, O bhikkhus, mostly have such a liking, such a desire, such a yearning: "O, that unwished for, disagreeable, unpleasing things would diminish and wished for, agreeable, pleasing things would increase. For those beings, O bhikkhus, having such a liking, such a desire, such a yearning, unwished for, disagreeable, unpleasing things increase and wished for, agreeable, pleasing things diminish. Therein, O bhikkhus, what do you posit to be the cause?" The Auspicious One, O Bhante, is our root for the Dhamma. The Auspicious One is our guide. The Auspicious One is our refuge. Certainly, please let the meaning of this statement be only evident to the Auspicious One. Having heard of this from the Auspicious One, the bhikkhus will bear it in mind.” Well then, O bhikkhus, listen to that and do mind it well, I will speak.” “Yes Bhante,” those bhikkhus replied to the Auspicious One. The Auspicious One said this:

yebhuyyena bhikkhave sattā evaṃ kāmā evaṃ chandā evaṃ adhippāyā: aho vata aniṭṭhā akantā amanāpā dhammā parihāyeyyūṃ, iṭṭhā kantā manāpā dhammā abhivaḍḍheyyunti. tesāṃ bhikkhave sat-tānaṃ evaṃ kāmānaṃ evaṃ chandānaṃ evaṃ adhippāyānaṃ aniṭṭhā akantā amanāpā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti, iṭṭhā kantā manāpā dhammā parihāyanti. tatra tumhe bhikkhave¹ kaṃ hetuṃ paccethāti². " bhagavaṃmūlakā no bhante dhammā bhagavaṃnettikā bhagavaṃpaṭisaraṇā. sādhu vata bhante³ bhagavantaṃyeva⁴ paṭibhātu etassa bhāsitaṃ attho. bhagavato sutvā bhikkhū dhāresanti"ti. tena hi bhikkhave suṇātha, sādhu kaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmīti. evaṃ bhanteti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosūṃ. bhagavā eta-davoca:

3. Here, O bhikkhus, the Dhamma-deaf puthujjana, the one who does not possess the vision of the noble ones, not an expert, not trained in the noble ones' Dhamma;

the one who does not possess the vision of true men, not an expert, not trained in the true men's Dhamma. He does not know what things should be associated with, does not know what things should not be associated with. He does not know what things should be relied on, does not know what things should not be relied on. Not knowing what things should be associated with, not knowing what things should not be associated with; not knowing what things should be relied on, not knowing what things should not be relied on, he associates with the things that should not be associated with but does not associate with the things that should be associated with. He relies on the things that should not be relied on but does not rely on the things that should be relied on. For him associating with the things that should not be associated with and not associating with the things that should be associated with, relying on the things that should not be relied on and not relying on the things that should be relied on, unwished for, disagreeable, unpleasing things increase and wished for, agreeable, pleasing things diminish. What is the reason for that? Because, this is just so, O bhikkhus, as happens for one who does not know.

4. But the Dhamma-hearer, O bhikkhus, the noble disciple; the one who possesses the vision of the noble ones, an expert, well-trained in the noble one's Dhamma; the one who possesses the vision of the true persons, an expert, well-trained in the true person's Dhamma, knows what things should be associated with, knows what things should not be associated with; knows what things should be relied on, knows what things should not be relied on. Knowing what things should be associated with, knowing what things should not be associated with; knowing what things should be relied on, knowing what things should not be relied on, he associates with the things that should be associated with; he does not associate with the things that should not be associated with, he relies on the things that should be relied on, he does not rely on the things that should not be relied on. For him associating with the things that should be associated with; not associating with the things that should not be associated with, relying on the things that should be relied on, not relying on the things that should not be relied on, unwished for, disagreeable, unpleasing things diminish and wished for, agreeable, pleasing things increase. What is the reason for that? Because, this is just so, O bhikkhus, as happens for one who knows.

24. Suppose, O bhikkhus, there were a bitter gourd mixed with poison. A man would come along with a liking for life, a liking for existence, a liking for happiness, aversive to pain. They would say to him thus: “This bitter gourd, good man, is mixed with poison. Drink it if you wish. Indeed while drinking, the color, the aroma and also the flavor will be disagreeable to you. And having drunk it, you will meet with death or deadly suffering.” He would hurriedly, without reflection, drink that beverage and not relinquish it. While drinking, the color, the aroma and also the flavor will be disagreeable to him. And having drunk it, he would meet with death or deadly suffering.
