1. This indeed was said by the Auspicious One, said by the Arahant, as heard by me:
2. These three divine sounds, O bhikkhus, having been grasped, passes on among the devas from time to time. Which three?
3. O bhikkhus, on the occasion when the noble disciple, having shaved off hair and beard, having put on the yellow robe, intends for the going forth from the house [life] into homelessness, on that occasion, the divine sound is passed on among the devas: “This noble disciple intends for a battle with Māra.” This, O bhikkhus, is the first divine sound that having been grasped, passes on among the devas.
4. Furthermore, O bhikkhus, on the occasion when the noble disciple, abides engaged in the practice of maturing the seven bodhipakkhiya dhammas, on that occasion, the divine sound is passed on among the devas: “This noble disciple is engaged in a battle with Māra.” This, O bhikkhus, is the second divine sound that having been grasped, passes on among the devas.
5. Furthermore, O bhikkhus, on the occasion when the noble disciple, with the extinction of the asavas, having realized for himself with direct knowledge, in this very life, the asava-free mind liberation, wisdom liberation, and having entered upon it, dwells in it, on that occasion, the divine sound is passed on among the devas: “This noble disciple is victorious in battle. He was at the forefront of that very battle and now dwells having conquered.” This, O bhikkhus, is the third divine sound that having been grasped, passes on among the devas.

6. “These, O bhikkhus, are the three divine sounds, which having been grasped, passes on among the devas from time to time.”

7. This is the meaning of what the Auspicious One said. Thus, this was said there:

“Having seen victory in battle,
the rightly Self-Awakened One’s disciple;
the devas venerate him,
that great one who is fully matured.

“Homage to you, O thoroughbred man,
you, who has won what is hard to conquer;
having vanquished the army of death,
with unhindered liberation.”

Thus indeed do the devas pay this homage,
to the one of attained mind,
because they do not see that of him,
