mettagusuttam

1053. I ask that the Auspicious One answer this for me, (venerable Mettagu)
I think the knowledge master is fully self-developed;

From where do these sufferings arise,
whichever various kinds there are in the world.

1054. Truly you asked me about suffering's source, (the Auspicious One) that I will tell you just as I know it;
suffering comes to be with belongings as its source,
whichever various kinds there are in the world.

1055. Indeed not having known, when one makes belongings, that foolish one comes again and again to suffering;
therefore surely knowing,

1053. pucchāmi taṃ
bhagavā brūhi mettaṃ, (iccāyasmā mettagu)
maññāmi taṃ vedagaṃ
bhāvitattaṃ;
kuto nu dukkhā samudāgatā ime,
ye keci lokasmiṃ anekarūpā.

1054. dukkhassa ve
maṃ pabhavaṃ apucchasi, (mettaguti bhagavā) taṃ te pavakkhāmi yathā pajānaṃ; upadhinidānā pabhavanti dukkhā,
ye keci lokasmiṃ anekarūpā.

1055. yo ve avidvā upadhiṃ karoti, punappunaṃ dukkhāmupeti mando;
tasmā hi jānaṃ upadhiṃ na kayirā, dukkhassa jātippabha-

one should not make
 belongings,
 seeing in accordance with the birth and origin of suffering.

1056. Of that which we asked, that you have answered for us, (venerable Mettagu)
 another that I ask, to that
 please speak;
 how do the wise cross beyond the flood,
 birth, old age, sorrow and
 lamentation;
 that to me sage, please answer,
 for indeed, this dhamma is
 understood by you.

1057. I will explain the dhamma for you, (the Auspicious One)
 the dhamma that is seen,
 not from hearsay;
 which having known, faring
 mindfully,
 one could cross the world's
 adhesion.

vānupassi.

 haṃ;
 yaṃ viditvā sato caraṃ,
 tare loka visattikaṃ.

1058. I greatly delight in
that,
O great sage, that unsur-
passed dhamma;
which having known, faring
mindfully,
one could cross the world's
adhesion.

1059. Whatever you know,
(the Auspicious One)
above, below and across in
the middle;
dispelling delight and settling in these,
consciousness does not
persist in being.

1060. That vigilant one,
dwelling thus mindfully,
the bhikkhu faring, having abandoned appropriations;
birth, old age, sorrow and
lamentation,
having known just this here,
abandons suffering.

1061. I greatly delight in

 One has abandoned suffering,
 for indeed, this dhamma is
 understood by you.

1062. Surely those would abandon suffering as well, whoever you sage would constantly advise;
 having come to that very
 naga, I pay homage,
 it is well that the Auspicious One would constantly advise me.

1063. That brahmin, the knowledge master, the supremely knowing, (the Auspicious One)
 a disowner, not attached to sensual being;
 he has certainly crossed
 over this flood,
 and gone beyond to the

barrenness, free from doubt.

1064. That man here having known, the knowledge master,
having relinquished this bond of being and non-being;
he is free from thirsting,
untroubled, desireless,
he has crossed over birth and old age, I say.
