

0.0.1 Assemblies

parisāsuttam

1. There are, O bhikkhus, these two assemblies. Which two? The assembly trained in empty talk, not in inquiry, and the assembly trained in inquiry, not in empty talk.

dvemā bhikkhave parisā. katamā dve: okkācītavinītā¹ parisā no paṭipucchāvinītā, paṭipucchāvi-nītā parisā no okkācitavinītā.

2. And which, O bhikkhus, is the assembly trained in empty talk, not in inquiry? “Here, O bhikkhus, in this assembly, when the discourses spoken by the Tathagata that are deep, deep in meaning, supramundane, connected with voidness, are being expounded, the bhikkhus do not listen. They do not give ear attentively. They do not apply their minds to understand it. They think those dhammas should not be learned and mastered. However, when discourses spoken by poets, elegant in sound, elegant in phrasing, [composed by] outsiders, spoken by disciples, are being expounded, the bhikkhus do listen. They give ear attentively. They apply their minds to understand it. They think those dhammas should be learned and mastered. They, having mastered that dhamma, do not examine and cross-question each other [inquiring]: “How is this? What is the meaning of this?” They do not disclose the undisclosed, do not explain the unexplained, and they do not dispel their doubts in regard to the numerous perplexing dhammas. This, O bhikkhus, is called the assembly trained in empty talk, not in inquiry.”

¹ukkācīkavinītā - sīmu, sīl, pts, syā ■

katamā ca bhikkhave okkācitavinītā parisā no paṭipucchāvinītā: idha bhikkhave yassaṃ parisāyaṃ bhikkhū ye te suttantā tathāgatabhāsītā gambhīrā gambhīratthā lokuttarā suññatā² paṭisaññuttā. tesu bhaññamānesu na sussūsanti na sotam odahanti, na aññācittam upaṭṭhapenti, na ca te dhamme uggahetabbam pariyaṇupaiṇitabbam maññanti. ye pana te suttantā kavikatā³ kāveyyā cittakkharā cittabyañjanā bāhirakā sāvakabhāsītā. tesu bhaññamānesu sussūsanti, sotam odahanti, aññācittam upaṭṭhapenti, te ca dhamme uggahetabbam pariyaṇupaiṇitabbam maññanti. te taṃ dhammam pariyaṇupaiṇtvā na ceva aññamaññaṃ paṭipucchanti, paṭivacaranti⁴ idaṃ katham imassa kvatthoti? te avivaṭaṇceva na vivaranti, anuttānīkātāñca no uttānī karonti. anekavihitesu ca kaṅkhāṭṭhānīyesu dhammesu kaṅkham na paṭivinodenti⁵. ayaṃ vuccati bhikkhave okkācitavinītā parisā no paṭipucchāvinītā.

3. And which, O bhikkhus, is the assembly trained in ²suññātapaiṇitamyuttā - syā

³kavitā - machasaṃ

⁴pavivaranti - katthaci

⁵nappaṭivinodenti - machasaṃ, syā inquiry, not in empty talk? “Here, O bhikkhus, in this assembly, when discourses spoken by poets, elegant in sound, elegant in phrasing, [composed by] outsiders, spoken by disciples, are being expounded, the bhikkhus do not listen. They do not give ear attentively. They do not apply their minds to understand it. They think those dhammas should not be learned and mastered. However, when the discourses spoken by the Tathagata that are deep, deep in meaning, supramundane, connected with voidness, are being expounded, the bhikkhus do listen. They give ear attentively. They apply their minds to understand it. They think those dhammas should be learned and mastered. They, having mastered that dhamma, do examine and cross-question each other [inquiring]: “How is this? What is the meaning of this?” They disclose the undisclosed, explain the unexplained, and they dispel their doubts in regard to the numerous perplexing dhammas. This, O bhikkhus, is called the assembly trained in inquiry, not in empty talk.”

katamā ca bhikkhave paṭipucchāvinītā parisā no okkācitavinītā: idha bhikkhave yassaṃ parisāyaṃ bhikkhū ye te suttantā, kavikatā kāveyyā citta-kharā cittabyañjanā bāhirakā sāvakabhāsītā, tesu bhaññamānesu na sussūsanti, na sotam odahanti. na aññā cittaṃ upaṭṭhapenti, na ca te dhamme uggahetabbaṃ pariyāpuṇitabbaṃ maññanti. ye pana te suttantā tathāgatabhāsītā gambhīrā gambhīratthā lokuttarā suññatā paṭisaññuttā, tesu bhaññamānesu sussūsanti, sotam odahanti, aññā cit-taṃ upaṭṭhapenti, te ca dhamme uggahetabbam pariyāpuṇitabbam maññanti. te taṃ dhammam pariyāpuṇitvā aññamaññaṃ paṭipucchanti, paṭivicaranti, idaṃ kathaṃ? imassa kvatthoti⁶, te avivaṭaṇceva vivaranti? anuttānīkatañca uttānīkaronti, anekavihitesu ca kaṅkhāṭhānīyesu dham-mesu kaṅkham paṭivinodenti. ayaṃ vuccati bhikkhave paṭipucchāvinītā parisā no okkācitavinītā.

4. “Of these two assemblies, O bhikkhus, this is the highest, O bhikkhus, namely, the assembly trained in inquiry, not in empty talk.”

imā kho bhikkhave dve parisā etadaggaṃ bhikkhave imāsaṃ dvinnam parisānaṃ yadidaṃ paṭi-pucchāvinītā parisā no okkācitavinītāti.

⁶ko atthoti - machasaṃ ■

